1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-7, 17-23 and 25-26, drawn to methods of pipetting liquids into a set of containers to provide a gradient of concentrations in the containers, methods of loading liquids into through-holes in a platen, methods of mixing liquids in two platens, a microlens array, method for diffusing light and a perforated platen, classified in class 422, subclass 100.
 - II. Claim 8, drawn to a method of loading (pipetting) liquid into through-holes in a platen by dragging a droplet across the top surface of the platen, classified in class 422, subclass 100.
 - III. Claim 9, drawn to a method of loading (pipetting) liquid into through-holes of a platen using an array of capillary tubes, classified in class 422, subclass 100.
 - IV. Claims 10-13, drawn to methods of loading (pipetting) liquid into sample containers in which distinct regions of concentration are created in a liquid having a surface, classified in class 204, subclass 600+.
 - V. Claims 14-15, drawn to methods of manufacturing a platen with through-holes therein, classified in class 219, subclass 384.
 - VI. Claim 16, drawn to a method of providing a hydrophobic coating on a silicon platen having through-holes therein, classified in class 427, subclass 58+.
 - VII. Claim 24, drawn to a method for humidifying a system, classified in class 436, subclass 174.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Art Unit: 1743

2. Inventions I and II, III or IV are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require any particular method of loading and each of the subcombinations can be used to load a liquid in the sample containers. Each subcombination has separate utility such as a method of transferring liquid to a platen for analysis or spotting on a surface.

3. Inventions II, III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different modes of operation.

4. Inventions V, VI and VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions produce different effect or products.

5. Inventions I, II, III or IV and V, VI, or VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different modes of operation, different functions and different effects.

Art Unit: 1743

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, the search required for Groups I, II or III is not required for Groups IV, V, VI or VII, and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. A telephone call was made to Samuel J. Petuchowski on June 27, 2003 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

8. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
